

The top 7 most popular pizza toppings in America

Note: Pineapple received 312 votes (12%), but was disqualified after the judging panel couldn't agree whether it was a topping, a controversy, or a cry for help 🍍 🙄

The top 7 most popular pizza toppings in America

The pie chart shows the results of a survey of 2,500 Americans about their favorite pizza toppings. Pepperoni was the most popular, chosen by 1,875 respondents, which represents 75% of the total. Extra cheese was next, selected by 1,600 people, or 64%. Mushrooms were chosen by 1,325 respondents, accounting for 53% of the total. Sausage was selected by 1,210 people, or 48%. Bacon was chosen by 1,090 respondents, representing 44%. Onions were picked by 975 people, or 39%, and black olives were selected by 860 respondents, which is 34% of the total. Pineapple received 312 votes (12%), but was disqualified after the judging panel couldn't agree whether it was a topping, a controversy, or a cry for help 🍍 😞

Long Description - Data Table: America's Top Pizza Toppings

The data table below shows the top 7 most popular pizza toppings in America based on recent survey and industry data. The rankings combine multiple polls and pizza industry sources to reflect general popularity. (Sample Fictional Survey of 2,500 Respondents)

Topping	Responses	Percentage
Pepperoni	1,875	75%
Extra Cheese	1,600	64%
Mushrooms	1,325	53%
Sausage	1,210	48%
Bacon	1,090	44%
Onions	975	39%
Black Olives	860	34%